

Platinum Support: Technical Account Manager

Skytap understands that business-critical systems require more than just occasional support. That's why our Platinum Support offering includes a Technical Account Manager (TAM). All Skytap TAMs have operational experience with multiple Operating Systems because we understand these systems are the foundation of your business applications.

Skytap TAMs are trained to leverage industry best practices for Operating Systems that can be virtualized and function within the cloud. Skytap TAMs are highly skilled, experienced advisors. They use their technical knowledge to assist and collaborate with your technical teams to know, maintain and improve your business applications.

Working hand in hand with you and your technical teams, your assigned Skytap TAM will review your systems and identify improvements and optimizations. They will also provide regular support reviews to identify trends and improvement areas.

Your Skytap TAM will provide training to assist you in implementing new Skytap features that may improve your application deployments in Skytap. Your Skytap TAM will also be your advocate should a complex problem arise and focus on collaborating with the appropriate teams to achieve the optimal solution.
